Set-1

Direction (1-5): In the following questions, a set of sentences is given and are jumbled. You are required to rearrange the given sentences in a proper manner to form a meaningful paragraph. And answer the following questions based on the rearranged sequence.

P. For more than a century, linguists, scientists, and archaeologists have attempted to decipher the Indus script, but its mysteries remain unsolved. Q. However, the reasons behind the society's sudden decline remain unclear, with no apparent evidence of war, famine, or a natural disaster. R. Since its discovery a century ago, around 2,000 sites have been uncovered across the region. S. Its undeciphered script adds to the mystery, keeping its language, governance, and beliefs veiled in secrecy.	T. The Indus, or Harappan, civilisation - one of the world's earliest urban societies - emerged 5,300 years ago.

Set-5

Direction (21-25): In the following questions, a set of sentences is given and are jumbled. You are required to rearrange the given sentences in a proper manner to form a meaningful paragraph. And answer the following questions based on the rearranged sequence.

P. These streets can result in heavy, concentrated snowfall in areas along the shoreline, often leading to intense and localised snowstorms.

Q. Warmth and moisture released into this lower atmosphere cause the air to rise, which leads to the formation of clouds and eventually snowfall.

R. Lake-effect snow occurs when cold air, often originating from Canada, is blown across the open waters of the Great Lakes.

S. The clouds that build up are then pushed by the wind onshore in lines, known as cloud streets.

T. As the cold air passes over the unfrozen and relatively warm waters of the Great Lakes this generates an unstable atmosphere.
