ANSWER

1. Answer: A. However

Explanation:

The first sentence talks about maintaining the status quo, but the second implies an upcoming change, creating a contrast.

Correct sentence: The central bank maintained the repo rate unchanged, however it hinted at a possible hike in the next quarter.

2. Answer: C. Consequently

Explanation:

Cause-effect relationship. The failure led to a response.

Correct sentence: The company missed its quarterly revenue target, consequently it implemented a cost-cutting plan immediately.

3. Answer: E. None of these

Explanation:

None of the given options convey the contrast needed. We'd need a connector like "yet" or "but" to show contrast between confidence and lack of preparation.

Correct sentence: He was confident about his presentation, yet he did not prepare thoroughly for the questions afterward.

4. Answer: A. Although

Explanation:

There is a contrast between having powerful features and a major drawback.

Correct sentence: The new smartphone has powerful features, although its battery drains rapidly under heavy usage.

5.Answer: D. Consequently

Explanation:

Direct cause-effect relation between the campaign and the surge in sales.

Correct sentence: They launched a digital campaign to attract millennials, consequently sales in that age group surged within a month.

6.Answer: B. Yet

Explanation:

The connector must show contrast: even though the roadmap was clear, the team failed to implement it.

Correct sentence: The manager provided a clear roadmap for execution, yet the team struggled to implement it effectively.

7.Answer: C. So

Explanation:

This is a simple result-based connection: shortlisted → now submit documents.

Correct sentence: She has been shortlisted for the final round, so she must now submit her documents.

8.Answer: B. Therefore

Explanation:

Improved service → fewer complaints = cause-effect. “Therefore” is the most appropriate.

Correct sentence: The bank improved its customer service metrics, therefore complaints regarding delays dropped significantly.

9.Answer: D. However

Explanation:

This is a contradiction — good performance but no promotion. “However” fits logically.

Correct sentence: The employee performed exceptionally in the evaluation, however he did not get the promotion.

10. Answer: C. Nevertheless

Explanation:

Despite delays (possibly leading to more anticipation), the response was still poor.

“Nevertheless” shows the unexpected outcome.

Correct sentence: The product was launched after months of delay, nevertheless its reception in the market was underwhelming.
